

Top Ten List

Giant yard with trees and shrubs that make it feel private & secluded. Yet lots of open play space!

Kitchen with huge island that is open to other rooms. Great for entertaining and just hanging out as a family. We actually eat a lot of meals at the island. And the kids do a lot of schoolwork at the island while I make meals.

Adaptability of having bedrooms on different levels. One of our bedrooms has been a bedroom, then an office, then a homeschool room and is now back to being utilized as a bedroom. Being on different levels Gives privacy, yet they are will close.

Large bedrooms - this allowed us to keep our kiddos in our bedroom when they were babies.

Large shed out back. Since it's insulated and has electricity, we have done a lot of projects in it. It also has a room above that the kids call their "shattic" and have made a ton of memories hanging out in it!

2 enclosed gardens. We have deer that come through our yard frequently and this keeps the produce for us and not the deer. ;) It's also allowed us to grow vegetables and fruit with our kids and having invested in the garden they learned to try new foods and actually like them.

Having a built-in desk in the kitchen. This allows us to keep an eye on our kids and help keep them safe if they are on the computer.

Having a mudroom for the kids to drop their backpacks, sport bags etc. It also has separate shoe bins as well as hat/mitten, sports gear baskets.

We are in walking distance to so many things. Parks, doctors/hospital, downtown, Farmer's Market...

Great neighborhood! Quiet neighborhood, lots of great neighbors and lots of families going by biking and/or walking dogs.

Basement is a great open space for kids play area, teen hang out, gaming room...
